Alexandria, VA (September 30, 2021) – Jobs for America’s Graduates (JAG) is pleased to announce the election of Scott B. Sanders, President and CEO of the National Association of State Workforce Agencies (NASWA), to the Board of Directors.

Scott joined NASWA seven years ago and has led efforts on behalf of the state workforce agencies to increase communication and advocacy with national policymakers, facilitate peer-to-peer engagement, share innovative practices, and provide technical and administrative assistance. He has over 20 years of private sector experience followed by almost a decade of public service in Indiana State Government. During his time in Indiana, Scott was instrumental in launching the Indiana JAG program in 2007.

“Our Board of Directors is comprised of 13 Governors, C-Suite Executives of the Fortune 500, and National Community Leaders,” said Ken Smith, President and CEO of Jobs for America’s Graduates “We are especially excited to harness Scott’s talent, deep experience with the state and national workforce system and his expertise and energy into furthering our mission of doubling the scale of the reach and success of Jobs for America’s Graduates. Scott has been a great source of guidance to us for many years keeping up to date on our work that adds to the value he will bring to our Board.”

“I have seen firsthand how Jobs for America’s Graduates can make a significant difference in the life of a young adult,” said Scott B. Sanders, NASWA President and CEO. “I’m excited to join the Board of Directors and look forward to promoting further engagement between youth workforce and education programs while growing participation in JAG.”
